Mrs. Neil Fleming Sr. Passed Away On Monday

Had Been Ill During Past Ten Weeks; Native of Edinburgh, Scotland; Funeral Held This Afternoon

Friends learned with regret late Monday afternoon of the passing at 5 p.m. of Mrs. Neil Fleming sr., 63, in the local hospital where she had been a patient for eight of the ten weeks she had been ailing. Deceased had appeared to have been recovering from her sickness and had been giving thought to being permitted to go home when she suffered a relapse which brought death.

She was born in Edinburgh and grew into young womanhood in the Scottish metropolis where she was married to Mr. Neil Fleming in 1914. Following their marriage they returned to Mr. Fleming's home town of Bowhill, Carden, where he was employed. Their two sons, Miller and Neil jr. were both born at Bowhill.

In 1920 Mr. Neil Fleming came to Canada and settled in Coleman, being followed six months later in 1921 by Mrs. Fleming and sons. West Coleman has been her home since the moment she set foot in Coleman.

Ten weeks ago illness overtook her and after two weeks her condition was such that she was taken to hospital where she was a patient eight weeks. Special nurses had been employed to watch over her.

Surviving are Mr. Fleming, sons Miller and Neil, both of Coleman and five grand-children.

The funeral was held at 2 o'clock this afternoon, services being conducted in St. Paul's United church with Rev. Dr. R. Magowan officiating. Interment was made in Coleman Union cemetery.

Funeralbearers included J. Kin- R. Gillies, J. A. Roughhead, J. Moore, J. Lepeck and J. Ramsay.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to express my sincere thanks to Dr. E. A. and E. J. Llesmer, Matron Alma Cyr and her nursing staff and to Mr. Harry Harris for their courtesy and attention during Mrs. Fleming's illness. June Police Report

Cases Under Criminal Code 3 for operating a gaming house.
26 for being inmates of a Gaming house.
7 for beating board bill.
11 for assault.
1 for non-support, case dismissed.
2 for damaging property.
2 for swearing in a public place.
2 for theft, one case dismissed.
1 for indecent exposure (three months in jail).
Total 71 cases.

REMARKS

Three gaming houses raided, one house twice within a period of three weeks. The last case came up and the defendant plead not guilty, case was adjourned for 8 days. The defendant came in court on June 11th and plead guilty. The magistrate fined him $25.00 and he paid the expense of Mr. Bannan who was acting for the Town of Coleman $35.00. The defendant paid in all $109.00 and his furniture returned to him. I might say again that I have no jurisdiction over fines paid by the defendant in court, the magistrate having full power to impose fines, large or small and of course the Criminal code, he must take notice of.

A woman from West Coleman is continually complaining about her husband gambling. He is going to Blainmore.

Four cases of theft reported, two have been cleared up, the other two are still under investigation, one particularly where a revolver was stolen.

Four car accidents, three reported, the 4th being my own.

There have been complaints made regarding noise near the Empire Hotel. People shouting at one another. This vicinity was looked at that time. We heard a lot of laughing and loud talking these people have been checked.

I have checked up on reckless car drivers and truck drivers and warned them. A speeding car should be checked by another to find out how fast he is driving.

The town population is getting a bit rough again owing to new men coming in, some of these boys seem to think that they can do very much as they like until they have been in court and paid a fine.

Collecting licenses. The tax for the dogs are not coming in very fast. To date only 83 have paid the tax. I shall be going from house to house and finding who has a dog who has not paid. I have applied to the Department of Attorney General for $280.00 in Liquor Fines.

On April 7 at midnight the coffee shop near the C.P.R. Depot was robbed of $50.00. Two men were arrested in Calgary and were brought back to Coleman under Police Escort. Mrs. McKay could not see the two afraid to say of the men was the man who robbed here therefore we were compelled to let them go.

Yours truly,

Wm. Antle, Chief of Police

Coleman Cubs Split Doubleheader With Lethbridge Purity 99's

The Coleman Cubs journeyed to Lethbridge on Sunday, July 4 to play an exhibition series against the Purity 99's. The Cubs were noosed out 7-6 in the afternoon tilt but evened the series in the evening by scoring a convincing 8-4 victory.

In the afternoon match the Cubs staged four run and two run rallies in the fourth and seventh innings. The Purity 99's and the score in their half of the seventh and won the match in the ninth, as Steve Odney smashed a single to centre to drive in Kucheran with the winning run.

"Lefty" Kimoto limited the opposition to seven hits while his teammates collected eleven. George Yashinaka's three bagger, Alex Kovack's homer and a homer by Steve Odney were feature blows of a well-played match—marred slightly by disappointing umpiring by "Scotty" Munro.

"Stumpo" Kimoto evened the score in the evening affair as he limited the Purity 99's to 4 hits and except for the eighth inning he was never in trouble. The Cubs again collected eleven hits and were able to coast to a convincing 8-4 win at the expense of Neil Howell of Calgary, who was making his pitching debut for Lethbridge.

For the winners Field scored three runs and Field displayed his best batting of the season by collecting four safeties, one of which was a three base hit to aid their team in Coleman's victory.

Lethbridge's rally in the eighth inning was the feature of their battling, otherwise they were well handcuffed by Kimoto, who sent eight of them down by the strikeout route.

Miners' Union Favorable To Scheme And Voice Willingness To Co-operate With Civic Centre Committee

Ask Committee To Determine What Support Can Be Expected From Business Section; Sales Organization Committee Set Up.

During the past two years Civic Centre committees have discussed and made plans for a Civic Centre. Today these plans are on a blueprint and comprise a building, two stories and a spacious basement, the estimated cost being in the neighborhood of $75,000. Some months ago at a public meeting in the now destroyed Community hall the citizens of Coleman voiced approval of the idea of a Civic Centre and authorized the committees to promote their plans in greater degree. Within the next few short weeks these committees are coming back to the citizens with detailed plans and asking their support in raising the sum of $75,000 in order that Coleman, as a community, may not have to take a back seat to any community when it comes to possessing recreational facilities.

In order that the scheme could be successfully launched the plans were first presented to the executive of the miners' union with the request that it be studied and then presented to the union membership for a reaction. President Steve Andrews and secretary William White were at the June 29 meeting and reported that the membership was quite favorable to the plans and the proposals to help raise the objective of $75,000.

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS
by Don Graham

In our daily lives all of us must mingle and perhaps work with people whom we do not like. And this presents a problem which everyone should recognize and attempt to solve.

Obviously we cannot "hate these people off the earth". We must somehow adjust ourselves to associating with them.

"It takes all kinds to make a world." And, after all, there are bound to be some people who do not like us. So we should try to develop a spirit of tolerance.

More important, we should try to conceal our dislikes. For when we show our feelings, it merely makes matters worse.

On the other hand, if you make even a little effort to be friendly and courteous towards those who "rub you the wrong way", it will make your relationships with them more pleasant. And eventually it may even lead to genuine friendships.

For another aid to happier, more successful living, try to cultivate peace of mind in every possible way—especially financially. Life insurance offers the most dependable and effective way to achieve this for yourself and your family.

Food Production In Britain

THE CRITICAL WORLD FOOD SHORTAGE which began during the war, has placed increasing demands on agriculture in those food-producing countries in which the growing of crops was not interrupted by the conflict. With the demand for grain and other crops far exceeding the amount which could be produced, there have been no surpluses in any country and in many places rationing has been in effect to ensure an equitable distribution of essential foods which were in short supply. Because of these conditions extraordinary demands have been placed upon farmers, and agriculture, which at all times is an important industry, has become an increasingly vital factor in world economy. Canada has contributed a great deal toward relieving the international food crisis and much credit has been given to the achievement of Canadian farmers in this important matter.

Great Progress Has Been Made

In Great Britain, where there has always been a heavy demand for Canadian farm products, great progress has been made in agriculture since 1939. At that time agriculture was Britain's largest industry, occupying 70 per cent. of the land area of England and Wales and employing either directly or indirectly, over one million people. In spite of this, only one-third of the food consumed there was produced in the country. The outbreak of war, and the cutting down of food shipments from this country by the German submarine menace in the Atlantic, made it necessary for production in Britain to be greatly increased, as well as for food to be strictly rationed. Various methods were used to increase production, including the bringing of expert advice to the farmers, increasing the use of machinery, draining land, and improving poor farms. Shortage of labor for farm work was combated by fixing minimum wages for workers, "freezing" farm workers to their jobs, and organizing the Women's Land Army and seasonal help from many sources.

Have Learned By Experience

The most impressive advances made during that period was in farm mechanization. Two-thirds of the machinery used was made in Britain, and centres were set up from which farmers could rent machines at reasonable rates. As a result of these efforts, Britain produced 70 per cent. of her own food requirements during the war. When it became clear, after the war had ended, that it would be necessary to continue to produce as much as possible in view of the grave world food situation, experience gained during the war proved valuable in planning a policy for agriculture to meet the needs of the times. Assured markets and guaranteed prices, announced well in advance, are basic features of the present policy, as are the guarantee of minimum wages for farm workers and the power for the government to ensure, when necessary, that land be properly farmed. An interesting article on this subject, published recently by the British Ministry of Information concludes: "The British farmer faces the future with confidence, knowing that the best machines and technical advice are at his service and that his rightful place in the life of the country is firmly established."

"He does. He's quite crazy. Keeps saying, 'No tigers, no pink elephants, no creepy-crawlies.' And look, doctor—the ward's full of 'em."

"You'd be so much happier if you don't try to find out," replied his wife, sweetly.

"In a collision," replied Casey, "because, in a collision there you are, but in an explosion, where are you?"

Trans-Canada Highway Urged In Commons

OTTAWA. — The trans-Canada highway question was revived in the commons during study of reconstruction department estimates.

Western members hammered at it for almost an hour despite Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe's reconstruction minister, stand that "the federal government has neither the authority nor the machinery to build highways in the provinces."

"I know nothing about the trans-Canada Highway," he said at one point. "I will not answer questions about it..."

Members who urged action on the long-debated project: Cal Miller (PC—Portage la Prairie); Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg north centre); Howard Green (PC—Vancouver south); Angus MacInnis (CCF—Vancouver east); E. D. Fulton (PC—Kamloops); Rev. Dan McIvor (L—Fort William); Hugh Castleden (CCF—Yorkton) and Robert Fair (SC—Battle River).

Mr. Miller asked whether the reconstruction department had done any survey work across Manitoba in connection with a trans-Canada highway.

"And is it the ultimate intention of the department to build the trans-Canada highway across Manitoba and western Canada?" he asked.

Mr. Howe said the route of the trans-Canada highway was a matter for each province to recommend and the federal government to approve.

Mr. Miller asked later: "Is there among the future unemployment relief projects or programmes of the government any blueprint for the trans-Canada highway?"

"If we see any sign of widespread unemployment," said Mr. Howe, "we will proceed to make a blueprint. But at the present time we have not one and we do not think one is necessary."

Black Fly 'Pest Of The Farmer' Licked By Hard-Working Scientists

Here is the group of farm scientists responsible for an experiment which resulted in the control of black fly along the South Saskatchewan river, north of Saskatoon, Sask. Dr. A. P. Arnason, head of the Dominion entomology laboratory at Saskatoon; Dr. A. W. A. Brown, of the Suffield, Alta., experimental station; Dr. R. A. E. Galloway, head of a British government laboratory which is something of a clearing house for entomology research material from Commonwealth countries; and Dr. J. G. Rempe, noted authority on insects and insecticides.

By T. R. MELVILLE-NESS

Central Press Canadian

SASKATOON. — For many years the farmers of north-central Saskatchewan, living within 60 miles or so of the South Saskatchewan river have had plenty to worry about the early part of June. The reason for their concern has been the dreaded black fly, which annually has killed off hundreds of head of valuable stock, mostly cattle, and caused severe losses to farmers.

One bite from a black fly was enough to send an animal crazy with agony, and in a matter of minutes, death would follow. Without warning the flight of the black fly would begin from the hatching places at various rapids along the course of the river, and the small gray insect has often left unbelievable destruction in its wake.

Recently, there was more than just a hope that hard-working farm scientists had the dreaded pest licked. By reason of the fact that the black fly selects a breeding place where water runs rapidly over rocks, Dr. A. P. Arnason of the Dominion entomology laboratory at Saskatoon was almost sure that the larvae could be killed off by water-borne poison running over them.

The problem was to figure out a dose of poison that would not harm the valuable fish resources of the river, and would also have unharmed the larvae of other insects, mainly of the diet of the river fish.

Dr. Arnason, working with Dr. A. W. A. Brown, of the national defence department's experimental station at Suffield, Alta., and others making a study of insect pests and their destruction, arranged for a plane equipped with spraying equipment to spray the river at a point well upstream from known breeding places of the black fly. Dr. Brown, with Dr. J. G. Rempe, well known entomologist at the University of Saskatchewan, worked out technical details, and the big Dakota crossed and

Many Fail In Business

OTTAWA. — So far, it's been a poor year for business. The bureau of statistics reported 202 commercial failures in the first quarter of 1948, greatest number since 1942. First quarter total compares with 120 in the same period last year, 54 in 1946 and 83 in 1945. However, it was lower than in prior years. In 1939 the first quarter saw 371 failures.

Liabilities rose sharply during the quarter, totalling $3,405,855 compared with $1,431,807 in the same period of 1947. There was an advance also over the same periods of 1946 and 1945. Liabilities for the first quarter of 1939 were $3,592,118.

During the quarter, there were three failures in the prairie provinces against none a year ago.

ORIGINAL SLOGAN

Paris' first restaurant, opened in the eighteenth century, had these words above its doors: "Come all ye that labor with the stomach and I will restore you."

Nothing was left to chance when the river was sprayed with larkicide in an attempt to prevent the hatching of the dreaded black fly. Here a member of the R.C.A.P. Contingent which undertook the job of spraying the river calculates the speed of the wind so that drift of the poison spray could be estimated, and the "swaths" of poison laid down exactly where they were wanted.

recessed the broad South Saskatchewan six times laying down a spray of DDT in oil on each trip.

Results Are Good

Results were more spectacular than any of the scientists dared hope for. Observers stationed along the river banks reported finding only six live black fly larvae for 100 miles downstream from the point of treatment. The floating film of poison spray, which worked out at one part of DDT in ten million of water, was apparently all that was needed to destroy the larvae of the black fly, leaving other larvae and fish unharmed. Most other larvae, such as those of dragon flies, are found in the mud of the river bed, or in stagnant pools, and were not touched by the poison floating on the surface.

Farmers Happy

Experiments further downstream later indicated that a lower concentration would do the trick, and that a plane would not be needed to do a job of black fly killing in future. "We are of the opinion that it will be necessary only to dump the DDT emission into the river from bridges or from boats well upstream from black fly breeding places," stated Dr. Rempe. "Results of the tests are most encouraging, and we believe it is possible to get complete control of the black fly before hatching," he added.

Farmers in the area heaved a big sigh of relief, since they had been warned that the black fly infestation would be heavy this year. While most of them will be on the alert, it seems fairly certain that the tiny killer will not be around to worry them, either this year or next. There are still plenty of farm hazards in Saskatchewan, but at least one of them seems to have been eliminated — one that has cost farmers plenty of money over a period of years.

Industrial Development Through Water Power, Prairie Irrigation

SLANTING its technical program mainly to two developments of foremost current interest in the region of meeting, the 61-year-old, 10,000-member Engineering Institute of Canada at Banff spotlighted prairie water and oil.

Here are highlights from addresses recorded by the Financial Post during the four-day technical sessions:

An all-Prairie plan for "water engineering"?

A new Western Water Board, recently agreed upon by the governments of Canada, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba should provide an excellent medium for co-ordination of engineering work relating to the mighty Saskatchewan and also advance inter-regional studies, said Manitoba Mines & Resources Deputy Minister D. M. Stephens.

In planning for any development of those waters "we have reached the stage where planning within individual regions isn't enough."

Manitoba, with no large known sources of coal, oil or natural gas, looks to water power as an energy source and energy reserve, Mr. Stephens said.

"The people of Manitoba place much emphasis on water power in their thinking and planning. With only 16 per cent. of the province agricultural, a large part of the remainder must look to forestry and mining to provide the main economic activities of the future. The forests will provide pulp, paper and cellulose products more readily than lumber and development of these as well as base metal industries needs cheap power.

"Without Island Falls on the Churchill River or some other water power site which could be equivalent in terms of capacity and costs," Mr. Stephens said, "the Flin Flin mine which now supports a city of 10,000 people would never have been developed. It takes almost 100,000 hp. to keep Flin Flin going and there are other large known deposits of ore in the immediate vicinity of Flin Flin for the treatment of which still more power is required. Without the water powers on the Winnipeg River there would be no paper industry at Flin Flin in Manitoba."

A "Saskatchewan River Authority" to deal with the use of water from that "most important stream serving the Prairies"?

Such an organization is forecast as a possibility of the future by Mr. Gen. Howard Kennedy, consulting forestry engineer and chairman of the newly created federal-provincial Eastern Rockies Forest Conservation Board.

The Board was formed to administer that portion of the forest reserves on the eastern slopes, which includes streams feeding the Saskatchewan. It will act mainly as consultant, decide what fire protection measures are adequate, what engineering projects are necessary. It will use existing federal and provincial services rather than build up new ones.

One of the first major construction projects will be development of a north-south road system to tie into municipal, provincial and parish systems. The Board believes the summer flow of the Saskatchewan in a few decades will depend largely on the measures it will carry out over the next few years. He said present plans provide for "the most comprehensive forest management project yet attempted in Canada, if not in North America."

Does Alberta need more hydro power now?

Calgary Power's Production Superintendent T. D. Stanley gives a definite "yes"; reports the electrical load in that province up an average 18 per cent. in the first four months. "Even with installation of 30,000 kw. in the Edmonton steam plant now under way, additional hydro power or other development must go ahead at once."

There is at present developed in the Bow Basin 106,000 hp., with an ultimate development of at least 550,000 hp. possible. "Investigation of the rivers in Alberta indicates that enough advanced to give a detailed picture of possible power available. The Dominion Water & Power Bureau has estimated 1,250,000 kw. but Albertans consider this very conservative and that with combined irrigation and power schemes the total available will be seven times higher."

What industrial development will grow from prairie irrigation?

The million acres of expected additional irrigation in Alberta could readily bring about a population increase of 150,000 and major growth in beet sugar and canning, according to A. E. Palmer, Experimental Station superintendent at Lethbridge. "The establishment of food processing industries is a natural accompaniment of irrigation development under conditions as they exist on the prairie."

"Under irrigation a dry climate with long growing seasons becomes a valuable asset to the grower. Large investments in processing plants," he said. "This explains why the beet sugar and canning industries are growing in Southern Alberta."

Of the million acres of new irrigation projected, perhaps three quarters would be potential sugar beet and canning crop territory. "With no more intensive development than now exists in the Lethbridge area the projected development in Alberta could well support 12 additional sugar factories and 12 canneries."

The growth of these industries depends, of course, on markets as well as on irrigation expansion. The market for canned goods is problematical and may be greatly influenced by development in Canada's northland.

Less Milk Produced in Canada

OTTAWA—Less milk was produced in Canada in April than in the corresponding month a year ago, the bureau of statistics reported.

Milk production in April totalled 1,266,672,000 pounds, a decline of almost eight per cent. from April 1947. Total output of butter, cream, dry milk and whey totalled 417,500,000 pounds, a drop of almost 6,500,000 pounds from the corresponding month a year ago.

When this new form of public transport starts operating, Britain's business men will be able to step aboard from their downtown offices, whisk to conferences or luncheons in cities 50 and 100 miles away and be back at their desks in a few hours.

Some Drownings Said Unnecessary

Hundreds of Canadians die every summer from drownings. The reason for most drownings is carelessness and, in some instances, is due to the fact that artificial respiration efforts are discontinued too soon.

It is the contention of the Health League of Canada that many deaths from drowning can be prevented this summer—first by the running of no unnecessary risks by vacationists and others who live by the water, and second, by prompt and long-continued use of artificial respiration methods when accidents do occur.

The possibilities of long-continued artificial respiration are not fully realized—and this in the face of the fact that there are well-authenticated reports of artificial respiration being successful after as many as five hours.

Proper Methods Have Chance

Even if the victim has been in the water for as long as 30 minutes, there is a chance life is not extinct—there is a chance proper resuscitation methods will bring back consciousness.

The Health League believes that if the possibilities of long-continued artificial respiration become universally recognized, the public press will not have to carry such reports as "artificial respiration was applied for 15 minutes before death was pronounced."

Artificial respiration must be started as quickly as possible and continued for a long period—six hours or longer. It is not until rigor mortis sets in that life can be assumed to be extinct. One of the most documented cases of late revival is that of a child, brought back to life after five hours active work and hours after the child had been pronounced dead.

It is also important that those using artificial respiration ascertain that air enters the lungs properly while they are working on the patient. There is always a possibility that a spasm of the larynx occurred and that the victim suffocated rather than drowned.

Schaefer Method Popular

The most popular method of artificial respiration is the Schaefer method. In this the body is raised gently by the waist to allow water to drain from the lungs and stomach. It is then placed in a prone position with the head and chest lower than the rest, if possible. The head should be placed on one side of the patient's arms. The rescuer kneels astride the patient and applies pressure rhythmically in the region of the lungs. If possible, the patient should be kept warm with blankets and hot water bottles.

Rescuers should remember these six points:

- 1—Clear the patient quickly.
- 2—Sustain artificial respiration without delay.
- 3—Use warmth if possible.

CEILING REMOVED OFF WINTER WHEAT

OTTAWA.—Trade Minister Howe announced in the commons the removal of the price ceiling on Ontario winter wheat.

With the removal of the ceiling, an eight-cent-a-bushel payment which has been made to producers will be discontinued.

Mr. Howe said he could not say whether it would be necessary to continue export controls on Ontario winter wheat. If the international wheat agreement goes into operation Aug. 1, as planned, Ontario wheat will come under it and controls will be necessary.

To Tag Moose In Cariboo District

WILLIAMS LAKE, B.C.—Tagging of bull moose in the Cariboo is being undertaken by the Game Department in an effort to secure more information about the movements of the animal.

There is considerable controversy over the distances these animals travel, and little is known of the ages to which they grow. Robert Cleveland of Bridge Lake is tagging some for the department, and it is hoped to make arrangements in other areas for similar work.

TREES WELL NAMED

Eucalyptus trees are called "good fever trees" because they are used in many countries for draining malarial swamp areas. They grow rapidly in marshy land and soon drink the soil dry.
